SINGAPORE, Dec. 30.—Japanese forces on the northwestern Malayan front suffered heavy casualties when they launched a strong new attack, the British eastern high command announced today.

The new battle was announced after official British sources conceded loss of Ipoh, important tin-mining center in northwestern Malaya. Before the British evacuated, it was said, they applied the scorched earth policy to Ipoh, removing or destroying all the supplies and wrecking or blowing up tin mines throughout the area.

On Perak Sector
This assault occurred on the Perak sector of the front, the communiqué said, adding that the situation remained unchanged on other sectors. The war bulletin also announced enemy air raids on Singapore during the night, but said only slight damage resulted.

"On the Perak front the enemy launched a strong attack yesterday evening but suffered heavy casualties," the communiqué said. "Else—"

Moscow Says Soviet Forces Push Forward

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Dec. 30.—Smashing the efforts of retreating Germans to dig in along new lines, Soviet forces kept pushing relentlessly forward today and recaptured still more towns and villages on the Russo-German front.

A new high command war bulletin said fighting continued on the entire front throughout the night.

Chute Troops Active
The Red Army newspaper Red Star gave a graphic account of the

"havoc" caused by Soviet parachutists behind the German lines and told how, in the darkness, they managed to set the Germans to "exterminating their own men."

This report said that in nine days the parachutists blew up 29 bridges, burned 48 trucks, destroyed large quantities of weapons and wiped out 400 German officers and men. "One night," Red Star related, "the parachutists encountered a long column of German motorized infantry, supported by tanks and armored cars."

Further Revelations Of Hitler Interview Are Given By Huss

(Editor's Note: Yesterday Pierre J. Huss, for eight years chief Berlin correspondent of International News Service, presented the first of three instalments of an exclusive interview given him on the Eastern Front a few weeks ago by Adolf Hitler.

(In it, he disclosed for the first time that Hitler is fearful of President Roosevelt and the United States, described dramatically how the Fuehrer is preoccupied with the appalling likelihood that he has visited destruction instead of victory upon Germany and disposed of the childish story that Hitler "cheers rugs" when he is angry. Today Huss continues this extraordinary close-up, underscored by his own direct quotations, of the man who now finds himself opposed by all the democracies in his insane plan to rule the world.)

The now-scowling Hitler added this as an afterthought. He seemed to be talking to himself, forgetful of the American at his side and brooding over the man he hated.

"He wants to run the world and rob us all of a place in the sun. He says he wants to save England but he means he wants to be ruler and heir of the British empire."

President Will Give Message To Congress Monday

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—President Roosevelt worked today on a "State of the Union" message that Congress and a world-wide radio audience will hear next Monday in answer to an aroused demand that Japan be accorded eye-for-eye treatment to repay the murderous assaults on Pearl Harbor and Manila.

The White House withheld official announcement, but it was considered certain that when the second session of the 77th Congress goes through the formality of convening on Jan. 5, President Roosevelt will be on the rostrum. There was intense world interest in the annual congressional message that the Chief Executive was preparing.

CHUNGKING, Dec. 30.—Japanese forces suddenly increased the scope of their attacks on the entire central Chinese front today and battles raged north and south of the Yangtze river and in Hupeh, Hunan and Kiangsi provinces.

The main drive was aimed at Changsha, Chinese advisers admitted 20,000 Japanese troops crossed the Milo river and that a flank attack through Kiangsi already had achieved some success with Japanese capture of Kaoon, 35 miles southwest of Nanchang.

Latest reports said the Japs still were rushing reinforcements into this area.

Meanwhile, Chinese reports claimed a three-way, fanlike Japanese offensive east of the Han river had been crushed on Sunday.

The air raid on this Gibraltar of the Pacific was the first such attack by the Japs since the early days of the war.

Singapore was raided on the opening day of the war Dec. 7, simultaneously with launching of the Jap sneak attack on the U. S. naval base at Pearl Harbor.

Slight damage was caused in that first raid and comparable damage in raids within the next few days. Since that time, until today's attack, Jap air raiders have kept clear of the well-manned defenses of Singapore.

Lindbergh Seeks To Join Army Air Corps

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The war department today maintained a strict official silence regarding the application for military service of Charles A. Lindbergh, America's most famous aviator and until this country was attacked, one of its most vigorous isolationists.

Symbolizing the national unity behind the war effort, Lindbergh, a former reserve colonel, followed other erstwhile opponents of the foreign policy and volunteered his services for active duty.

Applies To Army Air Corps
He made the application to the Army Air Corp, headed by Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, indicating that the man who first spanned the Atlantic by plane desired service in the field in which he won international fame.

Whether the 39-year-old "flying colonel" will be given active service, whether he will be assigned to a technical post, or whether his application will be turned down, were matters of intense speculation today.

May Act On War Legislation For State

New Program Is Considered

Large Number Of War Measures May Be Placed Before Special Session

GOVERNOR JAMESE STUDIES PROPOSAL

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—The General Assembly may be asked by Gov. Arthur H. James to enact into law at the forthcoming special session a completely new program of war legislation, it was disclosed today.

The proposed new legislation, which is now being studied by the chief executive, was drawn up at a recent meeting in Washington of state representatives with the department of justice. It consists of six model acts designed to accomplish the following results:

May Be Included

1. Empower the governor to order statewide blackouts whenever he deems such action feasible or when requested by military authorities.
2. Authorize local communities to send their fire-fighting equipment outside their own jurisdictions at the request of the governor or their mayors.
3. Authorize the federal government to employ the facilities of local housing agencies in order to speed up defense construction.
4. Permit the state to accept federal grants for defense needs.
5. Authorize the governor to call upon local agencies to cooperate in facilitating the movement of troops and defense materials over public highways.
6. Empower the state department of health to set aside special administrative areas in the event of air raids or where military establishments are located in order to protect the public.

Studies Program

The governor is now studying a rough draft of the proposed legislation which was brought back by Deputy Attorney General Harrison Adams. Present at the meeting which Adams attended were representatives of state justice departments, legislatures, the governors' conference and the commission on interstate cooperation.

The formal draft of the bills is expected to be received today or tomorrow, said Adams, and Governor James will then decide whether all of the proposed model acts shall be submitted to the General Assembly for enactment.

Governor James has already announced he will ask the legislature to enact anti-sabotage legislation, with special emphasis on state control of explosives. Other subjects which the governor has indicated he will embody in his special session call include additional appropriations of state funds for defense purposes, congressional reapportionment and revision of the law governing state purchases. The governor may also ask the legislature to postpone the effective date for establishing a new parole system beyond June 1, 1942, the time set by the regular session earlier this year.

It was not known whether the inclusion of the new war legislation would delay the summoning of the special session beyond Jan. 5 or 12. Governor James has already stated that he feels there is no pressing reason for haste, as long as a congressional reapportionment bill is passed by Feb. 28, the first day for circulating nomination petitions.

To those who ask contributions for worthy projects that aren't absolutely necessary: Shame! If you have money, buy defense bonds.

He said he was sorry he could not take us aboard but there was no room on a submarine for prisoners. He didn't do anything to help us but at the same time we were happy he didn't try to molest us.

"Our two boats kept together for five days, but we separated in the dark on the fifth night, two days later we were picked up."

Chadbourne said each man lived on six ounces of water and two pilot biscuits a day and that they "still had a supply of both when we were rescued."

Captain Fred Evans, and 15 crew members in the second life boat were rescued. It was learned by another ship enroute to Africa.

He reportedly informed the officers he shot his wife, Margaret, aged 42 years, mother of their three children, and his brother, Jiamlatto, 29, "because they were love friends and did not care for me anymore."

Di Norcia went to New York, caught a train for Pittsburgh and arrived in West Pittsburgh where he was seen by Constable Bannon, Monday morning. When State Motor police received word to watch for Di Norcia they communicated with Welsh and Bannon and Bannon's "tip" brought about a quick arrest.

As soon as the man was taken into custody, the local motor police notified Lieutenant Hudak in charge of the Butler barracks, and Berneville authorities were notified. Di Norcia was taken to the county jail to await the arrival of New Jersey police who were to arrive here today.

It is possible Di Norcia may agree to return to the scene of the crime without fighting extradition. If not, extradition papers will be asked of Pennsylvania by the state of New Jersey.

gaged in a struggle which bids fair to assume great proportions as the first World War, those who must sit on the sidelines are realizing the part the boys in active service have been playing so far and will play in the future.

Should Sacrifice

It was stated by Assistant Chairman Genkinger, in charge of the business district, "Giving to this Red Cross war fund does not begin to assume the real proportions of giving, until it actually entails a sacrifice."

"When it is realized that the men who are in the service are giving some of the best months of their lives, and are making tremendous financial sacrifices, the small amount of money which one can give to this fund, is but small recompense," Chairman Diff stated today. The boys now in the army look to the folks back home to take care of their loved ones and to see that they do not suffer while they are away. This fund is being raised for this purpose. A large part of it will remain right here in Lawrence county and can be used only for this purpose. For this reason, it is hoped that every citizen will give generously, so that it will not be necessary to come back later and raise another supplementary fund."

Large industries in the nation have already contributed most generously, according to a report received by the Lawrence County Chapter, and many surrounding communities have already put their fund over the top. It is believed that the citizens of Lawrence county, always noted for their generosity will do their share willingly.

JAPANESE FORCES SUFFER LOSSES ON MALAYAN FRONT

where in Malaya there is no change. "Enemy aircraft raided Kuantan yesterday but caused no damage or casualties. Singapore was raided four times last night, causing slight damage."

Ipo Occupied

Japanese occupation of Ipo, important northwest Malayan tin-mining center 290 miles north of Singapore, was acknowledged by British authorities with disclosure that imperial troops have withdrawn to new defense positions further south.

In the light of the latest communications, observers in Singapore believed scattered Japanese parties which hitherto have been operating along the Perak line now have succeeded in coming together or receiving reinforcements to start a stronger forward push.

British authorities, however, feel they are now better able to deal with such large detachments, if only for the reason that they are more tangible than a fly-by-night, tree-roosting enemy that essays sitting shots at anyone coming within range.

One illustration of the type of aboreal warfare the Japanese are fighting was an instance in which a British soldier, standing in a trench, was wounded in the foot by an enemy bullet.

Such a wound could have been inflicted only by a Jap sniper perched in a tree.

A Singapore communique also confirmed that Japanese expeditionary forces occupied Kuching, capital of Sarawak, on the northwest coast of Borneo. Japanese occupation of Kuching menaces sea lanes between Singapore and Java as well as southern Sumatra in the heart of the Netherlands East Indies.

The Russian high command's mid-night war bulletin said:

"In a number of sectors Soviet troops overcame attempts by the German forces to entrench themselves in new defensive positions. Soviet troops continued their advance and took a number of inhabited localities."

The communique added that the enemy suffered "considerable losses" in manpower and materials.

The government newspaper Izvestia said Russian troops in six days had "cleared the Germans from 106 towns and villages."

Soviet advisers said the Russians had driven deep wedges north and south of German positions at Mzhaisk and Maloyaroslavets, west of the capital, and that the Nazis were beginning to withdraw from these areas to avoid encirclement.

DUTCH FIGHTERS KEEP UP ATTACKS UPON JAPANESE

"Something big" in the way of an anti-axis drive impending in the southern Pacific.

"Something Big"

The Batavia press was unanimous in stating belief that "something big" is in the offing and that "allied reinforcements" will be sent to the southern Pacific area.

The papers said that the reinforcements were "on their way to the Pacific" and that a general offensive against Japan could be expected soon.

But the press warned the public against impatience and pointed out the drive could be launched only after thorough preparation.

When the drive begins, the press said, "the blow which will be given to the Jap will make him dizzy."

(NBC picked up an official Tokyo broadcast aimed obviously at attempting to gain information on America's actual plan of campaign. The broadcast forecast an attack by the United States via Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, or alternatively by way of Hawaii, Samoa and Australia.)

Baseless Reports

The Dutch high command meanwhile, probed apparently baseless reports of a landing by Jap paratroopers on Medan in northeastern Sumatra. (The British radio said the reports "probably were based on a misunderstanding" resulting from the Jap air raid on Medan.)

The flying Aussies swooped down on the Japanese cruiser off the Celebes islands, on the eastern end of the East Indies archipelago. They were reported to be flying American-made Hudson bombers in this first reported activity of the Australian air arm in the Pacific.

Dutch airmen bombed Miri, important oil center in Sarawak, the British protectorate in northern Borneo, which has been invaded by the Japanese hit and several "near" one direct hit and several "near" misses" on a Japanese transport and said they had shot down two Japanese planes.

The Dutch communique revealed that there were at least 100 casualties as the result of the Japanese raid on the Medan airdrome Sunday. It said 30 persons were killed and 70 wounded, but the report admittedly was incomplete.

Both the main library and the south side branch of the Free Public Library will close at 6 p. m. on New Year's Eve, it is announced.

Flags which are displayed in the curb system on downtown streets should not be allowed to remain in place at night. They should be taken down at sundown, and replaced in the morning.

One New Castle bank alone sold $40,000 worth of United States Defense bonds to the citizenry between December 18 and 25, and that gives some idea of the popularity of the bonds. The post office figures are shooting high, and all banks and savings-loan groups, including the Lawrence Savings & Trust which reported, indicates banner sales.

Pa. News notes that advantage has been taken of the Christmas holiday period to extract the tonils of quite a few school kiddies. This gives the kiddies an opportunity to recover before school resumes. Quite a number of such operations have been performed at the local hospitals this week.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

TREAT YOUTHS LIKE GROWNUP

Adults like to be considered younger physically than they really are while they, as well as children, resist any suggestion that they are younger mentally.

Referring to her teachers, a certain high school girl said: "They treat us like second-graders and expect us to answer them like college women." A girl in college once asked me: "Why do teachers treat you like a kindergarten child?" "Do they?" I enquired. "Yes, and they also did in high school."

Youths would like to be treated at school and at home about as if they were adults. Barring a few instances in which their parents, and teachers with far more experience, will properly make a few decisions for them, I see no good reason why their desire to be treated as grown up should not be realized.
Teachers and parents who do this readily win their cooperation.

I have come to believe that the biggest secret of succeeding with the adolescent boy and girl is contained in this attitude toward him.
It certainly is an effective means of winning their confidence.

During recent years, I have conducted forums and conferences with high school and college students throughout the United States, in groups of from 25 to 2500. Usually I discuss with them their feelings of self-consciousness when they talk in class or before a larger group.
Always I talk to them as if they were persons of maturity. I prove to them I won't make fun of them or treat them as little children. Very soon they treat one another as adults and no one laughs at the remarks of anybody else.

Don't Humiliate Adolescent

Did it ever occur to you that we are more likely to make fun of another person, laugh at him, when we suppose he has said or done something less bright than we should expect from one his age?
More often, our ridicule of another person is an unconscious effort of ours to announce how much brighter
we suppose we are than he is.

Unhappily, we all strive to feel important. The easiest way to feel this feeling is by lording it over other persons, and the easiest persons to lord it over are children, especially adolescent children.

Yet we parents and teachers don't lord it over our children on purpose.
We just do it, usually entirely unaware. Mother Nature prompts us.
Now since we know how prone we are to transgress against the innocent child, we should be on guard.
These human ills of ours I discuss more fully in my "The Modern Parent" and my "Building Personality in Children," both of which you may find in your public library.

Just Folks

MARRIED MAN'S LOT
From Christmas on and a week or so

My ties with color are aglow,
And I possess a shirt or two
With all the splendor of the new.

From Christmas on, a month, a pair
Of good kid gloves are mine to wear.
In them I proudly walk about
And then I burst the stitches out.

From Christmas on I've perfect
hosiery
With holes at neither heels nor toes
But long before the month of May They're being darned the self-same way.

From Christmas on—a month or two
I've new pajamas, red and blue.
By June—like other married men
I wait till Christmas comes again.

Hints On Etiquette

Punctuality at meals goes a long way in the home in promoting good humor and harmony. The cook, whether mother or an outsider, deserves the courtesy of prompt appearance of the family at table if at all possible.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:43. Sun rises tomorrow 7:22.

Someone will be seeing you about contributing to the Red Cross fund for the benefit of our soldiers in the service. The boys are doing a great work for us and we surely can furnish the money they need for a little comfort. Give all you can.

We are still hearing some Christmas talk. One gal said she didn't even get the things she didn't want. Others called Santa a bum, or sumpin'.

Our hat is off to Pope Pius XII.
He sure is making a great effort for peace.

AWAKENING

I never knew what life could be Until I married you.
How crammed with mad felicity
And wondrous things to do.
I never guessed as it sped by,
How glorious was life
Until the preacher mumbled, "I Pronounce you man and wife."
I never knew I must confess,
Until I took a mate,
That life was full of happiness—
And then it was too late!

A visiting Frenchman says his first impression of American women is that they are cold. Well, in a way, maybe so. Frenchy, but they're well worth the effort to defrost them.

The welfare of all our people in this country is more important now than personal ambition.

those things.

Prosecutor (cross-examining):
"Now, sir, will you tell the court
how far you were from the accused when the shot was fired?" Witness:
"13 feet, 7-3-4 inches." Prosecutor:
"Come, come, now, how can you tell to the fraction of an inch?"
Witness: "I knew one of you smart lawyers would ask me so I measured."

Dumb Dorah: "I'm returning this bottle of catsup. My kitty wouldn't even look at it."

When it comes to paying rent, very few people who pay it like to do it, no matter how much it costs
the landlord to keep up the place

Grocer: "Yes, sir, but I hope you'll soon be round again."

We noticed that quite a few people did not sign their names to the Christmas cards they sent out.
Others wrote their initials, which often could not be figured out, and some wrote in such a bum way the names could not be made out.

SHE "AXED" FOR IT

Good Taste

"Won't you please attack the baby kissers. I have a young baby and I strongly object to having her kissed by anyone. My mother says
I am silly, but I still think I am right."—Mother.

Answer: There is an old saying:
"Everybody loves a baby." And as a result of their popularity infants from time immemorial have had to take no end of mauling from their myriad admirers. The custom of indiscriminate kissing babies has extended through the centuries and there is a grave possibility that high rates of infant mortality have resulted largely from it. To learn the prevalence of throat affections, re-need only look about us in the street car and note the coughs.

And it is a conservative estimate that there are as many bad throats and lungs among baby kissers as among car riders. And still we are not taking into account contagious diseases of the gums, teeth, and sinuses that do not make themselves audible. The worst offenders are members of the baby's immediate family, especially those of the older generation, whose feelings young parents hesitate to hurt.
Teach your baby to turn her cheek
when being kissed.

Question: Must one, in moun-taining refrain from all amusements, or is it permissible to go about in the usual way?—B. C.

Answer: To be absolutely consistent one wearing deep mourning should avoid gay places of amusement, such as night clubs, musical comedies and the like, although no one could justly criticize a bereaved person for seeking the diversion of a play or musical or a motion picture. As soon as she accepts the attention of other men, a widow should shed her weeds worn for her husband.

Question: When I enter a public dining room and am seated by a waiter or a hostess, should I thank him or her for this service?

Answer: No. Do not thank the waiter or the hostess for this service which is in line with their regular duties. Thank them for any special service given.

Question: Who should bow first when meeting in public—the man or the woman?—Oliver.

Answer: If they are friends, they will properly greet each other simultaneously. If formality is to be observed, the woman bows first.

Santa Relegated To Background By Churchill
Capital Forgets Patron Saint During Visit
Unintentionally Monopolizes The Limelight

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—

WINSTON CHURCHILL, rather than Santa Claus in Washington this year. He participated with President Roosevelt, to be sure, in a Christmas tree lighting on the White House grounds, joined his host in a holiday broadcast to the democracies, took Christmas dinner at the executive mansion next day and evidently didn't steal any of Santa's thunder intentionally. Generally, though, St. Nick is the outstanding personality at Yuletide festivities, but Winnie monopolized most of the limelight on the capital's latest occasion.

A White House tree lighting always draws a crowd, but, for size,
the latest one was unprecedented, and it's a safe statement that a high percentage of the folk were present less to see the tree than for a close-up of the British prime minister and an earful of his oratory.

The president, of course, commanded his fair share of attention, but he isn't a novelty, and Winston not only is the first London prime minister who ever hung up his stocking in our executive mansion;
he's the first of 'em who ever crossed its threshold, inward bound,
in wartime.

I've already had occasion to mention the obviousness of F. D. R.'s and Winnie's desire to capitalize their conference through plenty of enthusiasm-creating advertising.
They've increasingly emphasized it, however. Illustratively, at their initial press reception, in F. D. R.'s office such a mob of newspapermen was on hand that those in the background couldn't get much of a sight of the president. In the mist of the circle, so F. D. R. asked him to stand up and exhibit himself. Complaining instantly, besides getting up, Winnie jumped onto his chair's seat, erect, and posed for a couple of minutes.

He adopted one White House rule
as soon as he got here.

No "Direct Quotes"

As all Washington correspondents know, the president's answers, to the questions they put to him,
mustn't be printed without his special authorization, except with his boys, that is, Winnie mustn't be directly quoted, either, without his permission, which the president himself occasionally gives, to make something he's said sound all the

Tells Of British Drive On Norway

Major German Military Establishment On Norwegian Island Attacked

GERMAN GARRISON ABOUT ELIMINATED

Editor's Note: Here is the first eye-witness account of Great Britain's slashing attack on the major German military establishment on the Norwegian island of Vaagso, carried out by "commando" troops in collaboration with the army, navy and air force.

By RALPH WALLING
Special Correspondent of Reuter and International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—British commandos, in a brisk five-hour daylight house-to-house action following a surprise dawn landing, fought to a virtual standstill crack Nazi troops of the Trondheim military area guarding Vaagso, killed, wounded or took prisoner almost the entire garrison of more than 200, blitzed all industrial plants and dynamited or spiked all coastal guns.

Chief captives were the commander of the Nazi garrison, the German naval captain of the port and the chief "Quisling"—the 40-year-old chairman of an important local canning factory engaged in supplying fresh food to Nazi troops in Russia.

Although outnumbered, the Germans put up a stiff and skillful fight.

I landed with the commandos, and can confirm that we engaged small groups and snipers every yard of the way.

The operation was carried out with dash and daring. The commandos, whose ranks are said to include aristocrats, authors and actors holding some of the best-known names in Britain kept constantly on the move. They made leap-frog spurts through the town, which was soon on fire through demolitions and because house after house had been stormed.

Here is how the operation was carried out:

The vanguard of two small warships approached stealthily toward the rugged fjord, carrying commandos and flat-bottomed, light-armed barges. Navigation lights twinkled at the feet of half a dozen cliffs, marking the passage.

The commandos, in full kit, waited between decks, shaking off the last traces of seasickness resulting from the rough passage.

The main convoy with light naval forces in support passed safely into the narrow entrance of the fjord. Tracer bullets flashed up from the hill-tops as Hampden bombers swept in over us.

The convoy then stealthily took up positions in the shadows on either side of the fjord. When daylight came, the barges were cast off and purred their way to shore.

Our warships then opened up furious broadsides against the four-gun Nazi battery on the island of Maalov. Firing 50 shells a minute, they pulverized the lump of rock, setting sheds and ammunition dumps ablaze and scoring a direct hit on one emplacement.

Under protection of this cannonade, the snake-like line of barges drove straight for the islet. Within half an hour, our men climbed the rocky slopes, stormed the guns, shot many Germans, took 20 of them prisoner and blew emplacements of stores sky-high.

This assault was led by a major who was serenaded by men across the water to the strains of bagpipes.

Simultaneously, the main landing party, of which I was in the leading barge, reached the rocky foreshore of Vaagso and lowered ramps and barges under protection of a smoke-screen laid by the Hampdens.

We waded ashore knee-deep through the rock pools and beneath the acrid smoke. Dashing young commando officers and hard-bitten sergeants led the men in a complicated series of assaults through and around the narrow town from west to eastward. There were many individual deeds of heroism under fire.

the part of wisdom for us to profit by their experience, not disregard it. Particularly, it would seem that the presence in Washington of Lord Beaverbrook and the accompanying experts provides an opportunity for a survey of what they have done which we can profitably avoid or profitably adopt.

AT least it would be such an opportunity if there were in our government someone with authority enough and capacity enough to get at the facts and operate along these lines. Unfortunately, there is no such person. All authority is in the hands of the President and he has delegated very little—not enough for any action not previously approved by himself. Immersed in great problems of global strategy and the direction of the armed forces, it is plain that he cannot deal with such details. The trouble is that no one else can. He hasn't delegated that kind of authority, but if he had he has not around him the sort of men capable of wielding it effectively.

AND that brings up the point on which the President himself can act without delay. He can act, but no one else. In both England and Canada the best brains in the country are now in the government. There are no conspicuously able and experienced men who are not being utilized in key positions; which is as it should be. But that is not true in this country. The reverse of that is true. Unfortunately, the best brains of the country today are outside of the government, not in it. Our outstanding men of ability and experience are not being utilized. Few will dispute that statement.

A FEW names spring instantly to mind: B. M. Baruch, Herbert Hoover, Wendell Willkie, Alfred Sloan, Lewis W. Douglas, John E. Hanes, James A. Farley, Owen D. Young. All these men have capacity, character, experience and unquestioned patriotism. There is not one but who would be an enormous help in the great national effort we are making. They would increase both efficiency and confidence. Moreover, they are available. And there are plenty of others. But they are outside the government, not inside. There is no way for them to serve except at Mr. Roosevelt's invitation—and that has not been extended. If there is one thing more disturbing to the caliber of the men who are managing this job, it is the caliber of the men who are not being permitted to help manage it.

weightier. He keeps a stenographic record of all such stuff, though, to guard against errors or misinterpretations.

Winnie, it's true, isn't uncommunicative. He doubtless preserves a judicious amount of military secrecy, but, "off the record," he's pretty talkative to interviewers. And, when he does dodge an interrogation, he does it deftly and jocularly, not grudgingly.

His American slang's good, too. He doesn't indulge in expressions like "My word!" or refer to the Nazis as "blighters." He describes 'em in U. S. A. language that wouldn't do in a refined publication, even if he authorized it. For "half" he says "half," not "hahf." In short, he could pass muster as a Yankee, which he is, 50 per cent, by percentage. Probably he inherited his new world accentage. The honest fact is that he pronounces things more in our hot polloi fashion than F. D. R. does, with his Groton and Harvard upbringing.

My own impression is that he came here at least as much for public effect as to confer with the president. He could have done his conferring through diplomatic channels and over the long distance phone, but that wouldn't have been so spectacular.

Large Entourage

His entourage arrived with him to the number of about 50, some of 'em pretty high up, like Lord Beaverbrook, but they've scarcely been noticeable in comparison with the super-dynamic Winston. They hunted accommodations in hotels around town. Washington's hotels have been turning world-be guests away wholesale since the emergency started, but they managed to find quarters for these visiting Britons. If they hadn't, the chances are that an act of congress would have been passed, conscripting 'em.

Winnie, domiciled in the White House, naturally had no such worry.

In personal convention with his guest, it's understood that the president actually addresses him as "Winnie," and they say that Winnie calls F. D. R. "Frank."

And Lord Beaverbrook's known exclusively as "the Beaver."

The lesser lights are spoken to more ceremoniously.

As soon as the party landed here, it became quite a problem how to get 'em home again. They snooted out of London mightily inconspicuously, but it didn't look as if the Germans could be prevented from getting inklings concerning their return voyage.

Anyway, it was a record-breaking Christmas in Washington.

James Rejects Congress Plan Now Proposed

Governor Says It Is Not Definite Enough To Provide Solution

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—Gov. Arthur H. James today has rejected a legislative proposal to reduce Pennsylvania's congressional delegation from 34 to 33 by having the Republicans and Democrats each surrender one congressional district and electing one representative at large.

The agreement reached by a bipartisan legislative committee after three months' bickering was termed by the chief executive as a "solution which solves nothing." In a statement issued shortly after the legislative report was given him, Governor James said:

"The agreement is that the Democrats are to give up a metropolitan congressman and the Republicans a rural congressman.

"What metropolis is to lose a Democratic congressman? The report doesn't cover that. Neither cities nor districts are named in the so-called agreement.

Must Agree On City

"Let the Democratic members do what I am informed the Republicans are ready to do. Let them agree on the city and the district. This phase must be covered before the report can be accepted as an agreement on reapportionment."

Governor James said he feared that under terms of the report any call for a special session issued by him would "renew the same factional battle which blocked reapportionment last summer."

Nine of the 10 members of the special legislative committee ratified the proposal at a meeting in Harrisburg yesterday. Apparently acting on instructions of Democratic National Committeeman David L. Lawrence, Rep. William L. Shaffer, Allegheny Democrat, declined to approve the plan.

According to capitol sources, the Republicans would reshuffle the 29th, 21st, 15th, 16th and 20th districts, eliminating the 15th, all in the northern tier, and the Democrats would rearrange the 24th, 25th and the five districts in Allegheny county doing away with the 25th, now embracing Washington and Greene counties.

Lawrence opposed the agreement on the basis of a report that Allegheny county would lose one of its five congressmen. He termed the proposal a "hodge podge." Meredith Meyers, Democratic state chairman, approved the committee's recommendations and urged prompt consideration.

Gov. Arthur H. James has not indicated when he will call the legislators into special session to enact the congressional reapportionment program, along with defense legislation.

Bury Japanese In His Tiny Sub

Americans Unable To Extricate Body Of Jap From Sub At Pearl Harbor

(By RALPH JORDAN)
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 30.—A would-be Japanese invader of Hawaii slipped beneath the waves today in a coffin, a concrete-weighted midget submarine, as Rear Admiral Chester Nimitz prepared to take charge of the Pacific fleet in "work-a-day style."

American bluejackets and marines gave the traditional honors to the enemy dead as the Japanese, enmeshed in the small craft, was sent to the bottom of the harbor. Naval workmen were able to extricate the body of one Japanese who apparently was the pilot of the tiny submarine, but were unable to remove the body of the sailor who was believed to have been the radio operator.

The two-man submarine, one of at least three so-called suicide underwater vessels that participated in the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, was hoisted alongside a dock after its capture. One of its sister ships was washed up on the beach outside the harbor. Another was struck on its conning tower by a shell from a minesweeper, then chased down and blasted to the surface by a depth bomb from a destroyer.

Admiral Nimitz tomorrow will formally take command of the Pacific fleet, supplanting Admiral Husband E. Kimmel. He has indicated that the usual ceremonies will be dispensed with.

Young Tells How Jap Emperor Is Lulled By False Victory Reports

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following article, James R. Young, for 13 years chief of the Tokyo Bureau of International News Service, describes how the Japanese emperor is lulled into complacent acquiescence in schemes of his military leaders by lying claims to non-existent victories.

By JAMES R. YOUNG

Noted Author and Far East Expert
Written Expressly for International News Service

Emperor "Charles" Hirohito, breakfasting on rice, raw fish and a pickled radish in his one storied palace in mid-town Tokyo, today read these cautiously prepared military reports:

1—His "Imperial and glorious forces" have "bombed San Francisco."

2—His navy has "liberated" 18,000 Japs at Davao.

3—Pamphlets dropped on Manila caused Filipinos to plot the overthrow of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "imperialistic soldiers from Washington."

Bulletins from Japan today by short wave are of the type I have read during Japan's 10-year war. In all of her combats—Manchuria, two with Russia, Marco Polo Bridge, Shanghai (twice), Nanking's assaults, Hankow's capture, Tientsin's burning, and Canton's sell-out—Japan's statements read identical.

Hirohito and his unhappy, underfed and depressed people have yet to learn that those whom they attack, hate Japan. He and they, who did not know of the Pearl Harbor attack until after war was declared, are not cognizant of the bitterness in the Philippines.

As Manila was declared an open city, I recalled numerous Japanese military communications that "only military objectives" were attacked in Chungking. I visited that famous back-country capital of Gen. Chiang Kai Shek and made particular note that no military establishments were in the city. The Chinese had purposely removed arsenals, barracks and supplies.

In that rocky, hilly city of a half million civilians I found the Japs had bombed the business district, mission hospitals and the civilian government areas.

The Japanese will not now receive fifth column support in the Philippines. Tokyo leaders often boasted that for the price of a good first class destroyer they could buy Filipino political leaders. Today there is no price. The Japs have, in the Philippines, united the people as in China. By their viciousness, barbarity and disregard for legal conventions, Japan has aroused wrath and hatred.

Emperor Will Never Know

Nippon's partial epileptic emperor, the alleged 124th descendant of the Sun Goddess, will never know that his arrogant and Axis dominated militarists bombed a defenseless city, that they did not bomb San Francisco. He will be kept in his holy sanctuary and fed only favorable reports of "victories."

Filipinos who remember Japan's lying assurances to Nanking and Hankow, Tientsin and Canton, Changsha and Chengchow, know the Japs drop only living scraps of paper and post deceitful hand bills. Japan will learn that the United States will bring the war to Japan. Admirals Yonai, Suzuki and others who cautioned the Imperial headquarters mad-men, will point out, if they live through the bombing, that the United States fleet is not idle, as Washington announced, that a well planned and intensive campaign will bring positive assistance to the Philippines.

"Der Tag" Near For Tokyo

Japan is less prepared to maintain a 26 week campaign against the United States, even with greater distances in Tokyo's favor, than was Germany in her half-year effort at Moscow.

Washington defeatists who even a week ago maintained that Japan had stock pile reserves and an abundance of raw materials to prosecute a long war are mistaken. This assertion is not underestimating the foe.

Japan's strafing in Manila, the shooting of American captives after stripping them of uniforms, sabotage and fifth column operations, and diplomatic back stabblings are the same pattern of Japanese operations since September 10, 1931 when Japan attacked Manchuria. But "der tag" for Tokyo is near—the day when Japan will feel the force of American attack on her home territory.

Press And Radio Can Keep Secret

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early today conveyed a "well deserved, belated accolade" from the president to the press and radio for "keeping the great Churchill secret."

"The president has been delighted," Early said. "He has commented time and again upon the fact that while it was more or less an open secret to press and radio men that Churchill was coming to Washington, not a single radio or newspaper mentioned the fact until the British Prime Minister arrived last Monday evening.

"He commented again Monday on the fact that neither radio nor newspaper mention was made of Mr. Churchill's departure Sunday for Ottawa. This was all the more remarkable because official announcement was made yesterday in the Canadian capital that the British prime minister arrived at 10:10 a. m."

Gallant Story Told Of Marines' Defense Of Wake Island

By RICHARD HALLER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HONOLULU, Dec. 30.—The gallant story of the defense of Wake Island, told in laconic dispatches to headquarters here, was highlighted by the spirited message in the final hours of the siege, which said:

"The issue is in doubt."
The ranks of the original 400 marines had been sadly decimated, all buildings on the tiny island had been bombed and shelled to debris. Japanese bombers were overhead in droves, Japanese warships hovered on all sides, transports lay ready to bring up overwhelming landing forces.

Planes Destroyed

The original 12 marine planes had been reduced to two—eight having been destroyed in the first surprise attack which came when the Japs pounded Pearl Harbor. They had been carefully patched up, and they took the air valiantly on their last flight as 27 enemy bombers and fighters swarmed over the island.

But the issue still was in doubt. It was not decided until the two fighters were finally disabled. One was shot down, the other damaged beyond repair in a crash landing when the pilot was wounded.

The last phrase of the last dispatch, in the series made public by the navy, told of the disabling of two enemy destroyers.

Before they were overwhelmed the Wake garrison shot down a dozen Japanese planes, sank three warships and heavily damaged several others.

It was a hopeless battle from the start. The magnificent courage, the dogged fighting spirit only prolonged the unequal struggle.

200 Jap Planes
The navy account of the 14-day siege of Wake, as reconstructed from the daily bulletins from the defenders, revealed that at least 200 Jap planes had taken part in the assaults. This does not include those coming over on the final day, for which reports are missing.

When the island fell it was because the marine garrison had no planes at all, and the Japs could come down to low levels and blast the unprotected defenders. Every building was destroyed, and there was no natural shelter.

The attacks began December 8 (December 7 at Pearl Harbor) and in this first unexpected raid eight planes were knocked out of commission. But from then on, the four remaining planes kept the Jap pilots at respectable altitudes.

At least 30 twin-motored medium bombers launched the first attack. They were land planes, presumably based on the Jap mandated islands. They were armed with machine guns and cannon, and were using incendiary shells. Four marine planes were in the air, and escaped destruction.

On the first day the marines lost 26 men, and a greater number of wounded. The second day 20 planes attacked, but did little damage in two attacks.

Sink Jap Ships

Enemy warships appeared the third day and pumped shells onto the island, shattering Atoll, and added the assault. The American planes and anti-aircraft knocked down six Jap planes, and the land guns got a light cruiser and destroyer. Two transports appeared, but kept at a safe distance.

On the fourth day 18 planes came over and two were shot down. The marines had lost one ship and now had only three.

December 11 was a big day for the defenders. The Japs lost a four-engined seaplane and a submarine, and another naval unit was damaged.

December 15 brought heavy attacks by at least 40 bombers. Three were shot down and several damaged. But the garrison suffered heavy losses also. Two of its three remaining planes were put out of commission. But during the night, in some unexplained fashion, the marines patched up one of the ships.

There was a raid December 16, and another December 17. By that time every installation on the island was damaged, including the machine and blacksmith shops, and the spare parts storehouse. Another raid was made on the 18th, but nothing happened the 19th.

Planes from a carrier appeared December 20. The next day was a holiday, and then came the final overwhelming attack. Planes, both land and carrier-based, swarmed over the island. The two-plane marine air force went boldly into the air and shot down several more Jap ships. But the odds were too great.

One American plane was shot down, and the pilot of the other injured in combat, wrecked his ship in landing. No longer menaced, the Jap bombers and fighters swept in at low levels and pounded every section, including its big guns. The Jap warships moved in close and laid down barrages for the landing forces from the transports, which, for the first time, ventured within artillery range.

It was about this time that the message went out: "The issue is in doubt."

Torpedoed and Beached off West Coast

The U. S. censor did not pass for publication the name of this ship nor the location of the attack on it. The ship is one of the U. S. merchantmen attacked by Japanese submarines off the California coast. It is shown as it piled up on the rocks.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It.
No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

"BARE" DOESN'T MEAN "NUDE"

And "lead" can be what a leader does or what a plumber uses for pipe, depending on how you pronounce it.

Words—pictures—symbols, the things we all use to convey ideas from one mind to another mind.

They are tools—the tools of civilized men, but they can be sharp or blunt, well used or misused.

WARNING to All America

You walk the paths of freedom. They are glorious paths, but they are beset by dangers.

Words—pictures—symbols can poison you, can hurt you.

Your newspaper brings you, through words, pictures and symbols, two kinds of news:

1. FACTS
2. OPINIONS

Now, the very nature of news in a free country demands that you have both the GOOD and the BAD news. You want the FACTS, the harsh, disheartening facts and the gentle, reassuring ones. You want the opinions of all sorts of men, good and bad.

Armed with these facts and opinions you are able to perform the responsibilities of citizenship. If you accept and support the good, reject and cast out the bad, you are armed to destroy the rattlesnakes along the paths of freedom.

Mere refusal to see or hear won't help you. It is the INFORMED man not the IGNORANT one who stays free.

Every day your newspaper brings you hundreds or thousands of vital FACTS—the market prices, births, deaths, marriages, fires, meetings, happenings—the list is very long, and it is amazingly accurate and complete.

Every day your newspaper brings you many opinions—its own editors' opinions, speakers', columnists'—even the weather man's opinion of tomorrow's climate.

Every day in newspaper advertisements, merchants on BOTH SIDES OF THE STREET bring you the facts and opinions about the goods and services they hope you will want from them.

The great thing about America and American newspapers is YOUR RIGHT TO CHOOSE what you will believe and whose urgings you will accept—whose products you will buy, whose policies you will follow.

This very right is what freedom is—the liberty of every American to make up his own mind.

In Germany, Italy, Russia, Japan, a government agency decides what the people shall read and hear. Not so in America. Do your part to preserve the American way of life.

Read, each Tuesday in this space, the messages about your liberty and how America's newspapers help you defend it. Your letters of comment will be appreciated by the editor and by this committee—Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

FARMERS URGED TO PRODUCE MORE

Crop Loans Are Available To Aid Farmers In Production Effort

Harder work, more difficulties but fair rewards for abundant production is the outlook for Lawrence county farmers in 1942, according to I. J. Nealon, field supervisor of the Crop Loan Office with headquarters in the Butler post office.

The goal for the nation's farmers next year calls for the largest production in the history of American agriculture. Farmers are asked to increase the production of hogs, eggs, milk, cheese; products which are used by the British as well as American consumers, engaged in all-out defense production. An increase if also urged in corn, oats, and other feed crops, more soy beans and potatoes and more home gardens.

Mr. Nealon has been advised to start taking crop and feed loan applications from Lawrence county farmers who are eligible now, so that check on his application can be made at once. The Butler office in the post office is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 30.—Harmar D. Denny, Jr., recently defeated Pittsburgh mayorally candidate, today had eliminated himself from the contest for the congressional seat to be vacated by Joseph A. McArdle, councilman-elect.

Denny said his "only desire since Pearl Harbor has been to return to active duty in the air corps—I am now a candidate for that job." As to reports he might be a congressional aspirant, he said: "I am not a candidate and never have been a candidate."

The sins of the gentry are not less vile; they only seem nicer because the setting is elegant.

Contract Extension For Street Lighting Being Considered

Safety Director Davies Says New Contract Practically Same As One In Effect

Pennsylvania Power Company on Monday formally submitted to council in meeting in the city building a proposed new contract covering the illumination of city streets for the coming five years. Safety Director D. O. Davies said the contract practically is the same as that now in effect. However, City Solicitor Robert M. White will scrutinize the proposal.

The contract calls for a minimum of 1,400 lights which are to be turned on or off within 30 minutes of sundown or sunset.

The proposed immediate rate prices range in price downward after the first 50 of any type are installed.

The immediate rates annually proposed are: First 50: 60 cp, $18.00; 100 cp, $24.00; 250 cp, $31.20; 600 cp, $56.40; and 1000 cp, $69.60. For 500 or more, the cost will be: 100 cp, $19.80; 250 cp, $25.80; 600 cp, $48.00 and 1000cp, $50.00.

The inducement rate proposed per annum, along the same cost plan, follows:

First 50: 60 cp, $18.60; 100 cp, $24.00; 250 cp, $30.00; 600 cp, $50.40; 1000 cp, $64.80; for 500 or more, the cost will be: 100 cp, $19.80; 600 cp, $24.60; 600 cp, $40.00 and 1000 cp, $55.20.

The immediate rate applies when it is equal or less than the base bill. The inducement rate applies whenever the bill under the inducement rate is equal to or greater than the base bill, except that whenever such bill is less than the base bill, the base bill will be applied.

For white way systems installed at the expense of customers but operated and maintained by the company, rates as follows will apply:

250 cp, $25.00; 400 cp, $35.00 and 600 cp, $45.00.

The contract would run from January 1, 1942 until January 1, 1947.

Lonesome Soldier Not Lonesome Long

Private Joseph D. Everingham, Puts Letter In Paper, Then Things Happen

(International News Service) CAMP GRANT, Rockford, Ill., Dec. 30.—The day before Christmas a plaintive letter appeared in a Chicago newspaper from Joseph D. Everingham, a private at Camp Grant far from his home down south in Clearwater, Fla.

The forlorn soldier wondered why no one wrote him, sent him Christmas cards, or anything. He wrote: "I'm certainly the loneliest private this side of the Mississippi. I'd surely appreciate hearing something about something."

Joe hardly could have reckoned on the effect of his wistful message. Today, even with the assistance of his buddies, he still was practically up to his neck in a pile of letters, holiday greetings, telegrams, and bundles and packages of all sizes and shapes.

The deluge started Christmas day and mail still was coming in for the only homesick Floridian today. About 400 letters and 40 packages came the first day.

He got enough invitations to Sunday dinners to last him for the duration. He got all kinds of edibles—including lobster, sardines and cheese—and these he shared with his buddies.

Also in the mountain of packages were an electric pants presser, a sewing kit, a pair of scissors, five toothbrushes, a variety of stationery and plenty of stamps; sweaters, socks, and other wearing apparel—the list was just about inexhaustible. Girls sent their pictures. Telegrams advised Joe to "keep your chin up."

"I got about everything except a proposal," said Joe.

War Committee Of Canadians Hears Churchill

British Prime Minister Tells Canada That Much Further Effort Needed

By WALTER KIERNAN International News Service Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 30.—Pulling no punches, Winston Churchill on Monday afternoon for more than two hours told Canada's war committee of the further blood and sweat and tears which the empire must pour into the prosecution of the war before victory can be achieved.

What Britain's prime minister said was for the ears of the men who control Canada's war effort but the story could be read in the sober faces of the war committee as it adjourned.

Churchill brought no pollyanna fantasy to the meeting—his first face-to-face encounter with the Dominion War Board. He brought a report of adjustments to be made, further hardships to be endured, further sacrifices to be made for victory's cause.

He brought too, a report of his conversations with President Roosevelt drawing Britain and the United States closer together in a program which must necessarily affect Canada.

Obvious to anyone who saw the war leaders after their conference was the new determination, the new will to go all-out for victory.

It showed in the grim lines of their faces, the clenched lips, the steady eyes.

They are not unacquainted with conditions of the war for they are in constant contact, through Canada's representatives in England, with the shifting picture but today they got their information direct from the fountain-head—the man who delivers it straight from the shoulder.

Even as Churchill left the meeting to attend a luncheon session with the full cabinet, the war committee was reviewing his remarks preparatory to injecting further stimuli into Canada's heroic effort.

Churchill arrived in Ottawa shortly after 10 o'clock Monday morning and was closeted with the war committee until early afternoon.

Survivors Land After Ten Days In Lifeboats

Twenty-Five Members Of Crews Of U. S. Freighters Reach Honolulu

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HONOLULU, Dec. 30.—Twenty-five survivors of two American freighters, torpedoed and sunk by Japanese submarines in Hawaiian waters, were safe here today after ten harrowing days at sea in open lifeboats. Shortly after twelve survivors of the Matson freighter Manini were brought to port, without news of the remaining 21 members of the crew. Thirteen survivors of the freighter Prusa arrived. Nine of their shipmates were killed and twelve are missing, they reported.

The Manini was torpedoed December 17, and the Prusa was sent to the bottom in the early morning of December 18. The Manini survivors arrived here Saturday night, and the Prusa survivors were brought in Sunday night, by a coast guard cutter which picked them up after they had drifted for nearly ten days.

Sammy Bartholomew of Fort Worth, Texas, an officer on the Prusa, told of the sinking of his ship and the subsequent experiences of the survivors from a bed in Queens hospital.

"We were all asleep in the crew's quarters, except the deck watch," Bartholomew said. "The torpedo struck aft demolishing our quarters and nine of the crew were instantly killed."

The torpedo blew a terrific hole in the old ship and wrecked the passageways. The men who hadn't been killed by the explosion were dazed, and it was hard work finding our way and crawling through the wreckage to the deck.

"The ship sank in nine minutes, and we had to work fast. We got two lifeboats over, and got away just before she went down. There were thirteen in my boat, and twelve in the other, including the skipper, Captain G. H. Bo. We haven't seen or heard anything of them."

There was no panic or disorder in the few minutes given the men to save themselves, Bartholomew declared, although the work of digging passages through the wreckage was pretty difficult, and the men knew the Prusa could not stay afloat very long.

"We were out nine days and ten hours," Bartholomew continued. Two hours after the old ship went down we heard planes overhead. We didn't recognize them, and don't know whether they saw us. They may have been Japanese.

"We drifted in the same general vicinity for three days, hoping the planes were our own, and would come back, but nothing happened. Then we raised sail and proceeded by 'donkey navigation' towards Honolulu."

"We made 500 miles before we were picked up. On Christmas day navy planes came over and dropped us some presents—food and a beaker of water."

On Saturday morning an army plane dropped more food and a first aid kit, and in the afternoon a coast guard vessel picked up the survivors.

Bartholomew suffered face cuts and bruises and internal injuries. Another survivor, Alfred Dyer of Toledo, was injured about the head and back.

"It was the worst experience I ever had," he said, "but I'm doing all right now—thanks to the coast guard."

Seven others of the Prusa's survivors were kept in the hospital, and four were discharged as in fit condition.

The crew of the Matson freighter Manini were playing blackjack in their quarters in the early evening of December 17 when a torpedo from a large Japanese submarine struck it aft amidships.

It was a black night, and the sea was rough, said Boatswain Orrin Jewett of Van Nuys, Calif., who was dealer in the blackjack game.

"I left twelve dollars on the table," he related. "We all knew it had come. The explosion shook us up, but it was not the terrific shock I thought it would be."

"There was a great whiff of air rushing out from the ship, and we could hear the breaking of the big chains that held the deck load of lumber. We ran for the lifeboats. Twelve of us went to the starboard. There was no great excitement but it was dangerous as the deckload was loose."

"I don't know whether the rest of the crew (21 men) escaped or not, but I believe they got away in the other boat. As we launched our boats a huge sea washed right up to the deck."

We pledge ourselves to this cause

A Statement by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We make this pledge publicly to our national government and to the people of the United States:

That we will cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods.

That we will continue our efforts to reduce the spread between prices paid to the grower and prices charged to the consumers.

That to this end we will continue to do everything in our power to assist the farmers and growers of America in the orderly marketing of their products at the fairest possible prices to them.

That we will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices.

That we will endeavor to continue to pay our employees the highest wages and to give them the best working conditions in the grocery business generally.

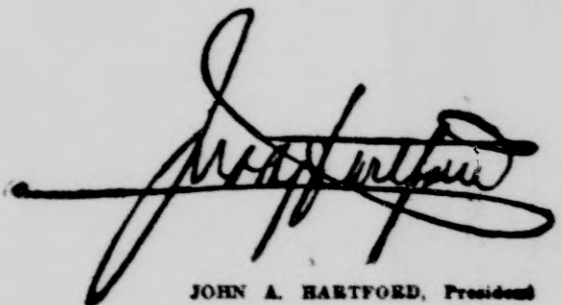

That we will make every effort to continue to sell food at retail at the lowest gross margin of profit in the history of the retail grocery business.

Today we are providing food for our customers at the lowest gross profit rate in the history of the retail grocery business. This means that we have achieved efficiencies in the distribution of food never before attained. More of your food dollar goes for food and less for overhead expenses than ever before. No other great retail business in the United States in any field is operated with such a low cost of distribution.

No one in the food business can control the wholesale price of food. Only the government of the United States has power to do this, and for the protection of our people this power in the government is now a necessary power.

Today, with the nation at war, we believe that no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest.

The armed forces of the United States are today receiving more and better food than ever before in our national history. It is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines, men, women and children, shall be better fed and better nourished than ever before in our national history.

Hoover Answers Question On "Fifth Column" In The United States

THREE THOUSAND ALIENS ARRESTED

(Editor's Note: Was there a "fifth column" in the United States when war struck? What has been done to arrest its activities? These questions were put to J. Edgar Hoover by International News Service and the following answers are the answers to International News Service.)

By J. EDGAR HOOVER
Director Of The Federal Bureau Of Investigation
Written Expressly For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—As war with startling ferocity engulfed the United States, the federal bureau of investigation of the United States department of justice was prepared. For many months, its activities had been intensified to meet the increasing responsibilities placed upon it to safeguard the internal security of a threatened nation.

In preparation for action against America, scores of foreign agents were sent into the United States to gather vital information for gangster governments and to sabotage national defense efforts.

Efforts Thwarted
Due to close cooperation between local, state and federal law enforcement organizations throughout the United States, aided by loyal and alert citizens, their efforts have been thwarted.

Nazi and Japanese intelligence agents in the United States have failed in their attempts to build well organized and successful machines.

While slinking subversive forces are present, there has been no foreign-directed sabotage. Our law enforcement agencies have been vigilant, wide awake and ready to act.

By order of the president in 1939, the FBI was charged with the duties of coordinating all investigations pertaining to espionage, sabotage, and related matters. The chief executive called upon law enforcement generally to cooperate and assist and the FBI law enforcement officers mobilized plan for national defense was immediately placed into operation.

With the outbreak of war, the FBI went into immediate action. With smooth correlation, it shifted from peacetime to wartime duties.

Over 3,000 Arrests

Some 3,000 Japanese, German and Italian aliens whose freedom was dangerous to this country were known to the FBI as a result of months of painstaking sifting and careful surveillances. Swiftly, they were taken into custody by fully mobilized FBI and the very swiftness and sureness with which law enforcement functioned served as protection to those foreign-born innocent of wrong-doing who, if law enforcement had broken down, might have been victimized by an outraged and hysterical public.

As an indication of the tremendous increase in the duties of the FBI as the nation prepared against attack, 68,368 matters pertaining to the national defense were received by the fifty-six field offices during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941; more than four times the number received the preceding year.

Personnel Tripled

To maintain the perennially high level of its efficiency, the FBI has tripled its personnel since the war first broke out in Europe in 1939. Fifteen hundred special agents have been added bringing the total agent force to more than 2800, and while the qualifications for some positions have not been lowered, trained since 1935 for just such an emergency, the graduates of the FBI national police academy who could be spared from their positions with local, county and state law enforcement organizations were called into active duty with the FBI immediately after the declaration of war.

War-time duties have not caused the FBI to relax emphasis upon the regular violations of federal laws over which it has investigative jurisdiction. The tendency toward increased crime rates during emergency periods must be offset by more effective law enforcement to achieve full national strength. In cases investigated by the FBI for the year ending June 30, 1941, there were 6,182 convictions, more than in any previous year. These convictions represented 96 percent of the cases investigated by the FBI and brought to trial.

Of Utmost Importance

The identification division of the FBI is providing a service of the utmost importance to the government, to law enforcement agencies, and to all war industries. The files of this division contain over 31,000,000 sets of fingerprints.

As an example of this aid, there have been instances where fingerprints of applicants for positions in the government and defense industries, when searched through the FBI fingerprint files, have revealed previous activities, often under other names, which would render them undesirable for positions of trust demanding unqualified loyalty.

Just as the FBI successfully met the challenge of organized gangs of kidnapers, extortionists, bank robbers, and automobile thieves during the last decade, it is today meeting the challenge of the equally dangerous and even more destructive foreign agents.

All of the facilities of the federal bureau of investigation are being utilized to stop the subversive menace. These include the world's most modern crime laboratory, the identification division which is a vast library of criminal information, and 56 field division offices located strategically throughout the United States and its possessions and territories, staffed by personnel, the quality of which is insured by most careful selection methods and an intensive training program.

The FBI is working day and night to protect the ideals upon which the United States as a free and tolerant nation was predicated. Aided by the law enforcement agencies of every state, it is utilizing the spirited cooperation of public-minded citizens and civic groups everywhere. With this solid web of protection free of vigilantism, our armed forces will be bulwarked by a unified citizenry and America shall be maintained for Americans.

Noted "One Man Dramatic Cast" To Present Program For Concert Guild

After some little period of doubt as to whether or not he could be secured for New Castle, W. W. Campbell, president of the Metropolitan Concert Guild, announced today that Jacques Cartier, famed dramatic actor, would appear in the George Washington Junior High school Monday night, Jan. 5.

Jacques Cartier, is known as a "one man dramatic cast," like Ruth Draper, he presents dramatic sketches entirely alone, taking all parts and doing a fine piece of dramatic work.

Unlike some individual dramatic presentations, Mr. Cartier's are a series of connected episodes, rather than a disjointed group of dramatic presentations.

His appearance here will mark the third high grade presentation of the Metropolitan Concert Guild. Opening with the "Marriage of Figaro" the Guild next presented the Curtis String Quartet and Abram Chasins, pianist. Now with Jacques Cartier the Guild carries on the high standard of entertainment it has set for the membership.

The man who borrows on his insurance and doesn't repay, is borrowing from his widow and orphans.

Further Hitler Interview Facts Are Given By Huss

might be dangerous, he lost all control of himself and began his campaign of vilification.

Assails Roosevelt

"With his Bullies and Biddies he pushed Europe into the war against me, not to save and preserve the youth and strength of the nations of the world in order to enslave them in plans of his own."

"I have realized all this long ago and I knew too that the sabotage of Munich was arranged as much if not more in your Washington than in London. All that year before the war I saw the hand of Roosevelt in everything over here that went on, and it seemed at times that even the British were merely acting as the tools of another man."

"When the war came, I felt that peace and common sense were not yet lost and therefore stood back time and again blinded by Roosevelt and his golden calf. He wanted the war to go on, and bring misery and destruction to the German people."

A cold rain mixed with a bit of sleet had begun despite the patches of sunlight peering out of fast-driving clouds. We reached the glass door leading into the central house of fuhler headquarters that looked not unlike a comfortable hunting lodge. Inside the small hall with its mounted deer heads, flunkies with booted black pants and white coats without ornament took our things and deferentially stepped aside. So did everybody else around that house, giving you the uncomfortable feeling that no one but the fuhler was to be heard or seen, lest perhaps a blitz of unrestrained temper and authority hit the man nearest this volcano. That has happened time and again, coming and going with the destructive and startling force of a whirlwind.

Walked Into Reception Room

Hitler walked into the plainly furnished reception room with its little round table surrounded by easy chairs and a sofa. The whole was the familiar reproduction in miniature of Hitler's personal style in reception rooms and chancelleries, at Munich and Berlin and Berchtesgaden, all slightly on the stiff side with a restrained reach for the dignified.

A fire of split logs blazed cheerily on the earth. A shepherd dog with a swastika collar strolled lazily up to Hitler and nuzzled his hand. He stroked the head, motioning me to sit down opposite. Others like his mock and unimaginative press chief Otto Dietrich and chief interpreter Schmidt also came around to sit there and listen in silent obedience.

By no stretch of the imagination could one call a party like this a gay or inspiring occasion. A taste of the formidable, mixed with suspense and the uneasy feeling of something unreal, pervaded the room. It seemed very warm, around there suddenly, and on the back of my neck I felt the slight moisture of perspiration. Yet I do not perspire very easily.

The fuhler looked at a message held before him on a tablet by one of his military adjutants. Without glancing at the man who had brought the message he scribbled on the pad and pushed it away. He sat forward again and held his hands between his knees.

There was a moment of hesitation as his eyes came to rest straight upon me, striving no doubt for a split second to identify again this mortal before him.

"Know How To Wait"

"I know how to wait," the nervous mouth said suddenly with a quick draw of breath. "Ja, and I can wait. I waited three years for Austria, and at the end of that time despite all the mischief and opposition against me by paid political criminals and elements in and outside of Europe, I got back Austria without firing a shot."

"When the time came, I marched in with flying colors and drums beating. Where was all that big talk then? Where is Starhemberg, where is Schuschnigg now? The world has forgotten them, and today Austria is as much part of the Third Reich as Sudetenland."

"I know my people and I know war. If we must fight for a decision as to who will survive in Europe, then I as a soldier from the trenches of the World War know how to fight that war. Over here we will come out on top, and no Stalin or Churchill or Roosevelt can alter that fact."

He began rubbing his knees in growing agitation. It was not necessary to bait him on with questions; on the contrary, it would have interfered with his thoughts. In any case I was there more or less by "royal" command without being clearly aware of the purpose.

It was due to leave Berlin for America within a few days, after eight years in Berlin as chief central European correspondent for International News Service.

Was Not To Publish

I was not even to publish what was said, except for some doctored propaganda. I wouldn't take, although I knew that within a few days Hitler was to hold his annual speech before the Nazi party vets in the traditional Munich beer cellar.

Perhaps, after the many talks and some interviews I have had alone and with others before and during the war, he wanted to get something off his chest. Keeping in mind that even at that moment this master of Naziland had in his pocket the zero hour he had fixed for Japan's attack on us and the subsequent declaration of war against America on the part of the Axis, I would make a guess and say that he had a bad conscience. Without knowing it, I was a sort of father confessor to him. He was groping for a way to justify himself before the deed.

GALLEY 2-3RD ADD FURTHER "As I said, political storms and military setbacks one of these days will sweep Churchill away the same as it swept away the Daladlers, Reynauds, Chamberlains and eventually the Stalins." The right boot dug into the carpet again, this time almost viciously.

"Ja, I can wait. I can wait years but Churchill can't. One of these days he will be gone, and even if I have not landed with my army on the island, where is England then. They don't know why they are fighting the war and the aristocrats as well as the under-fed classes are being crushed in more ways than one by the burden of war."

Perhaps Strike Deal?

"Perhaps then, if I wanted to, I could strike a deal with the British empire within 24 hours and settle the war over here. Where would Herr Roosevelt be then? My armies would be in all vital spots of the continent and inside from the channel to the Urals we could be busy building up our new Europe, independent of overseas and feeding itself without worry about the wheat or the coffee going to rot in Canada or South America."

"I could sit here behind my guns for the next 20 years and let America do what it will."

"But the next 20 years will not be 20 years of Roosevelt. I am young and healthy. Roosevelt is not. He is furthermore a president already sitting in office for the third time in violation of all political tradition and customs of his land. In a few years he must once again face the voters to keep the office or get out. He practically had to get into a war with me to keep going until now."

"He and I are at war, and even if he goes into his White House for a fourth term, I will still be here. If not I personally, then the next fuhler. Germany will not go down before Roosevelt and I can wait until he is gone."

"Then we shall see what is what in the two hemispheres."

(Editor's note: In the third installment of this ongoing interview tomorrow, Mr. Huss tells how Hitler plotted to throw Japan into war against the United States with "sneak-blitz" attacks on outlying American Pacific possessions.)

News Briefs From City Hall

Chief of Police G. McMullen today said that there is no doubt that tire bootleggers soon will begin operations and warned motorists to not park their cars in out-of-way and dark places. "Owing to the near impossibility of purchasing auto tires there will be some stolen. Police will do the best they can to prevent thefts but motorists must do their share to protect their property," the chief asserted.

Auto driven by William S. Ford, R. D. 3, reportedly crashed into the parked auto of Sam Schwartz which was parked at 1906 Highland avenue about 6 p. m. Monday. Ford claims the street light was out and he did not see the parked car then hit a telephone pole. He was arrested but discharged in police court today.

Council will meet for the last time this year Wednesday when the appropriation and tax levy ordinances will be adopted. Organization of the new council will be Monday morning.

U. S. DEFENDERS OF PHILIPPINES STANDING FIRM

raged without cessation after yesterday's three-hour Japanese air attack on the Corregidor island naval fortress which guards the entrance of Manila bay. At least four of the attacking planes were shot down. Thirty-six or more Japanese planes participated in the attack on the Corregidor fortress, flying at high altitudes.

As the USAFFE's brief communiqué reported everything quiet, it was established that the action at Tayog on Saturday, when United States troops dislodged occupational Japanese forces and sent them into retreat, was only an isolated incident and not connected with the main defense.

Send Seasoned Troops

All official information today emphasized that recent heavy reinforcements thrown in by the Japanese are the Corregidor island veterans with modern equipment in contrast to the untried youngsters used at the start of the campaign. Yesterday one Japanese plane bombed Calumpit in Bulacan province, hitting a sugar refinery where some workers were killed and a score or more injured.

In Manila itself many radio listeners heard the Japanese radio reiterate warnings that the Philippine capital will not be recognized as on open city unless Filipino soldiers cease their resistance.

Filipino Troops Answer

But the Filipino troops themselves have answered this Tokyo propaganda by redoubting their efforts against the invaders. One detachment of young Filipino soldiers on the southern front was reported to have held up the Japanese in a 48-hour battle, thereby enabling the United States far eastern command to reorganize its defense forces. One American tank commander told of Filipino soldiers rushing in front of the tanks in their eagerness to get at the Japanese.

The latest communiqué from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's field headquarters said "no material change" had occurred on either the northern or southern sectors, indicating the defense forces were standing firm on both fronts.

North of Manila the American forces were declared to have consolidated their positions and shortened their lines in Pampanga province.

Battle Big Odds It was stressed that the American and Filipino forces were offering stubborn resistance against all enemy thrusts despite the heavy numerical odds against them.

(Editor's Note: A war department communiqué issued in Washington yesterday said the Japanese have been reinforced by several infantry divisions, tank regiments and horse cavalry. It added that Japanese units are "composed of veteran soldiers with modern equipment." This same communiqué said that "losses have been heavy on both sides.")

On the southern front, it was understood, American and Philippine troops stemmed a Japanese push that sought to penetrate Batangas province from the Tayabas isthmus.

The Japanese were trying to develop a two-pronged drive in the southeast. The Japanese column to the south captured the railway town of Lucena Friday. After that it was checked in its effort to push north into Batangas province which borders on the south shore of Manila bay.

The northern column, trying to drive into Laguna province and move against Manila from the east, also was said to have been halted after making some progress at great cost.

FIREMAN IMPROVES Earl Patton, of Butler avenue, city fireman who underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Jameson Memorial hospital last week, is now getting along nicely.

Hear the man thanking Heaven for England's fleet? He is the one who said we didn't need anybody's help to protect America.

Got a spare buck? All right; spend it for some self-indulgence instead of defense stamps. That will give the Japs a break.

ents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McDonald, of the Ellwood road.

Council will hold their last meeting of 1941, in city hall, Wednesday. The appropriation and tax levy measures will be adopted. Organization of the new council will be made the first Monday in January.

When council convened in the municipal hall Monday Safety Director D. O. Davies submitted a bill establishing a second assistant fire chief position, at a rate of $165.00 monthly.

Council received from Safety Director D. O. Davies a resolution which was adopted, designating as captains in the fire department O. J. Davis, W. W. McConnell and R. Clark.

Within the near future, legislation will be sent to council calling for the temporary appointment of policemen in order that when any emergency arises, such as men eligible being taken into the army or navy, they may be replaced. The positions will not be permanent, however.

SURVEY OF NEW MEXICO (International News Service) SANTA FE, N. M.—New Mexico, which produces a large portion of the nation's supply of pumice, is being surveyed for new deposits of that valuable abrasive. Dr. S. B. Tallmadge of the New Mexico School of Mines, who is leading the survey, said that pumice, much used as scouring and polishing agent in defense work, is now more in demand than ever. With imports from Italy cut off by the war, he said, the demand is far exceeding the supply.

Things even up pretty well. If a caty gossip exaggerates your sins, a kindly one exaggerates your good works.

See Changes In War Policy Of Canada Now

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 30.—Even as Canada today awaited the speech which Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England was to deliver in the Dominion parliament there were evidences of coming changes in war policy which made something more than a mere courtesy call of Mr. Churchill's visit.

Most significant of the signs was the visit of W. Averell Harriman, expeditor of the lend-lease program in the United States, who was due in with Lord Beaverbrook, the British ministry of supply.

There were indications that the visit tokened a readjustment of Canada's financial conduct of the war, even possibly to the extent of wiping out Britain's accrued debt and an application of something closely akin to the American lend-lease program.

What Canada expected to hear from the prime minister was the answer to the many times asked question: "What is this going to cost us in lives and men, will we win?"

End Of Road In Sight
Britain's prime minister partly answered those questions yesterday when he was closeted with the Dominion's war committee for more than two hours, in separate conferences with war leaders and in a luncheon session with the full cabinet.

He told them in confidence and told them frankly at least the end of the road is in sight.

He told them that there would be setbacks—dips and breaks in the road—but that eventually the war would end in the defeat of the Axis powers.

He called on them for more and more cooperation while thanking them for what Canada already has given.

Canada has its own delicate problems such as conscription, on which Mr. Churchill might have something to say today if only by inference. Lacking open official support, conscription as it now stands in the Dominion restricts drafted troops to service within the empire.

Salvation Army Commissioner And Wife To Retire

Number Of Local People Plan To Attend Farewell Services In Pittsburgh

Word has been received by Capt. Carl Andreasen that Commissioner and Mrs. Alexander Damon, territorial commanders for the eastern United States, are to farewell from their present command and enter into honored retirement on January 30, 1942.

In connection with the above farewell, the commissioner and his wife will be in Pittsburgh on January 6 to lead a public farewell service which will be presided over by Judge William H. McNaughton and it is expected that many prominent citizens will also be in attendance.

It is expected that a number of the local advisory board members and their wives will be attending this important function. A highlight of the evening will be the colorful presentation in a "Parade of Tribute" as well as exceptional music and singing. There will also be a delegation of local members of the Salvation Army attending this impressive service.

The evening meeting is open to the public. Preceding the service of the evening, there will be two officers' councils and an officers' luncheon, both of which the captain and his lieutenant will attend.

Father, Daughter Hurt In Accident

Thomas Logan And Daughter, Eileen, Struck By Auto Monday Night

Father and daughter were severely injured at 7:45 p. m. Monday when a sedan reportedly operated by William Semler Jr., Highland avenue, struck them while they were crossing North Jefferson street at Falls street. A policeman who assisted in the investigation was a brother of the injured man.

The injured, Thomas Logan, 56, 18 West Falls street; both legs broken. Eileen Logan, 12, same address, one leg broken.

Both were removed to the New Castle hospital.

The accident was investigated by Policemen Joseph Logan and Albert Russo, the former a brother and uncle of the victims.

According to the driver he was operating his car south in Jefferson street and noticed the father and daughter walking from the east to West sidewalk. He claimed they apparently became confused and he was unable to avoid striking them.

College Attendance Is Lower In State

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—With a 4 to 6 per cent drop in attendance this year, Pennsylvania colleges and universities are beginning to feel the reaction of defense jobs and compulsory military service. In some instances unusually large freshmen classes have balanced heavy losses among advanced students.

A survey revealed that 22 of 34 universities and colleges reported smaller enrollments than last year. It was noted that schools with declining attendance were located near important defense industries.

Bloomsburg State Teachers' College reported the highest drop in enrollments, 36 per cent. This was attributed to the nearby American Car and Foundry at Berwick, where tanks are manufactured for the army. Shippensburg and East Stroudsburg recorded a decrease of 18 and 13 per cent, respectively.

St. Vincent, also near a large defense plant, was the hardest hit outside the teachers' colleges. The three largest schools of the state, the Universities of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania, and Pennsylvania State College, all have smaller enrollments this year. Penn and Pitt each reported a drop of 5 per cent, while Penn State reported 7½ per cent.

THE RUBBER SITUATION

And How It Affects Tires For Your Car

With the declaration of war between the United States and the Axis powers, the long-threatened danger of our principal sources of rubber supply has become an unpleasant reality. From Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies comes 75 per cent of the world's rubber and these two countries are now under attack by our enemies. Today, Japanese troops are attempting to penetrate southward through the jungles of Malaya and to land by parachute on the island of Sumatra in a desperate effort to occupy these vital rubber-producing areas and thereby slow the wheels of American industry.

Rubber In Modern Warfare

Rubber is indispensable in modern warfare. Airplanes and scout cars, tanks and trucks, barrage balloons and gas masks are only a few of the many essential war materials that require rubber.

The Reserve Supply Of Rubber

Keenly aware of this strategic importance of rubber and anticipating the day when the United States might be cut off from the Far East, our government, in co-operation with the rubber industry, began more than two years ago to build up reserve supply. After Pearl Harbor, it became necessary to take drastic steps to protect this precious store of rubber and on December 11 our government issued an order prohibiting the sale of tires and tubes to anyone not having a priority rating of A-3 or better, these temporary restrictions will end on January 5, and they will be superseded by new regulations which are now being formulated.

How long such restrictions will remain in force will depend upon the course of future events. Naturally, when our Allied forces are victorious in the Far East, shipments of rubber to the United States will be resumed. But in the meantime, steps are being taken to relieve the present situation.

Facts About Synthetic Rubber

The first of these is the expansion of facilities for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. There are a number of large plants now under construction, and the one for which we are responsible will be ready for production in the first part of 1942. Nearly ten years ago, our organization began experimenting with various types of synthetic rubber, and in May 1933, we produced the first synthetic rubber tires ever manufactured for Uncle Sam's armed forces. As more synthetic rubber became available, we consistently increased our production of synthetic rubber tires. The most important elements needed for the manufacture of synthetic rubber are butadiene and styrene, both by-products of petroleum, which commodity the United States is fortunate in having available within its borders in unlimited quantities.

Brazilian Rubber Available

Another possible emergency source of rubber is the valley of the Amazon River in South America. From that area, 45,000 tons were shipped in 1912 and it has been estimated that perhaps as many as 300,000,000 wild rubber trees exist in this region. These are not being tapped at the present time because the price of rubber is lower than the price which would provide the incentive for the natives to blaze the jungle trails, tap the trees and bring the rubber to market. In addition there is a possibility that some rubber can be obtained from Guayule shrubs, which can be raised in this country and Mexico.

Americans Should Produce Their Own Rubber

In this critical hour, when rubber assumes a position of prime importance to our national welfare and to our ultimate victory, I cannot help thinking of the statement made by my father more than 20 years ago when he declared that "Americans should produce their own rubber." To him the dependence of this country upon a single, concentrated area for any basic raw material was economically unsound and it was his premonition of difficulties in the future that led to the establishment of the Firestone rubber plantations in Liberia, which are now being worked to the very limit to produce every possible pound of rubber for our country.

How To Make Your Present Tires Last Longer

Naturally, it is going to take time to develop these additional sources of rubber. In the meantime, it is the patriotic duty of every loyal American to help conserve the present supply by making the tires that are now on his car last longer. You can add as much as 50% to the life of your tires by observing such simple precautions as keeping them inflated to recommended pressure, driving slowly and avoiding quick starts and sudden stops.

Nation-Wide System Of Factory-Controlled Retread Plants

For a number of years, the Firestone organization has recognized the merit and economy of retreading tires, and as a result, we have built up a nation-wide system of 132 retread plants, strategically located, to provide retreading service for our dealers and stores and their customers. To meet the present emergency, these plants are operating 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. By the process of retreading which we have developed, as much as 80 per cent of the mileage built into the original tread is added to the life of the tire and the quality of workmanship and material is such that we are able to extend our life-time guarantee to every Firestone retread.

New Victory Tire

Still another step which we took some years ago and which will serve our country well today, was the establishment of extensive facilities for reclaiming scrap rubber. Today the Firestone organization has the largest rubber reclaiming capacity in the world and we have the advantage of long experience in developing products made from this material. One of these is a new type of tire made from reclaimed rubber, which will give reasonably satisfactory service when driven at moderate speeds. We have named this product the "Victory Tire" and it is now in production in our factories. We also have in work a new type of tractor tire made from reclaimed rubber to help agriculture continue to play its vitally important part in the war effort.

The Patriotic Duty Of Every Car Owner

In the laboratories of the Firestone factories, our scientists and engineers are working night and day to find ways of using to best advantage the present rubber supply. Equally important to the successful conservation of rubber is the co-operation of American car owners, whose patriotic duty it is to get the maximum amount of service out of their tires.

Even mindful of our responsibilities to our country and to the car owners of America, the Firestone organization is making full use of all of its experience, all of its resources and all of its technical skill to meet the needs of both.

Total Of 145 Fire Towers In State Forests

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—The first forest fire observation station in Pennsylvania was a wooden structure erected in 1905, according to Chief Forest Fire Warden George H. Wirt of the Department of Forests and Waters.

During 1914, five steel towers designed by one of the District Foresters, were built on State Forest land. Today there is a total of 145 fire observation stations, 142 of which are steel towers under the jurisdiction of the Department and distributed throughout the Commonwealth on strategic points on both private and publicly owned property. All of these observation stations are equipped with telephone or radios and over 100 of them have both telephone and radio service.

Although the chief function of these observation stations is to detect and report forest fires they are also being used for other purposes. They serve as airway beacons and recently have been made available to U. S. and local defense organizations in connection with the Warning Service. Many of these observation towers have become points of attraction for the public and small recreational areas have been developed near some of the stations.

Shipbuilding costs in Sweden are 60 per cent above the pre-war level, the department of commerce reports.

SCIENCE FOR THE MASSES.

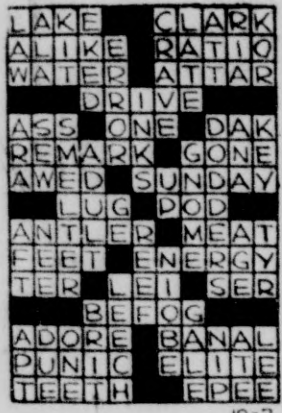

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.—Science for the masses and plenty of it, is urged by Dr. Edward Ellery, national head of the Sigma Xi scientific fraternity. In an address before a Tulane University group Dr. Ellery declared that until the ditch digger and waitress along with their white collared companions begin thinking scientific age will not be realized.

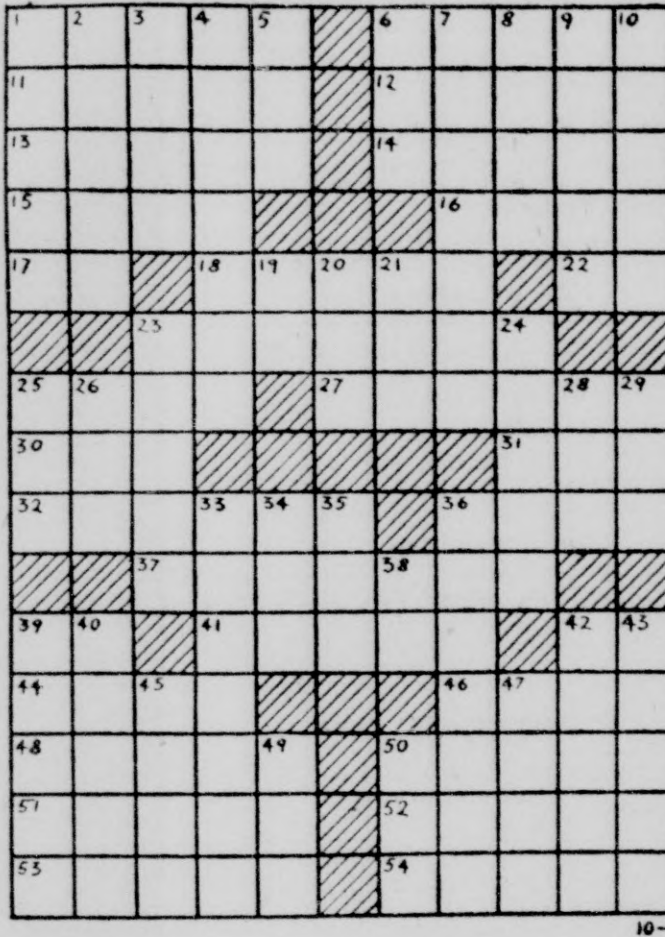

The island of Martinique has an area of 385 square miles, slightly more than one-third of that of Rhode Island, the department of commerce says.

Discuss Bus Line Revenue

Council And Head Of Bus Lines Confer On New Regulations

EXPECT AGREEMENT WILL BE WORKED OUT

Indications are that city council and Vice President William H. Muldoon of the S. V. T. company will attempt by negotiations to iron out all wrinkles concerning what revenue the city will receive through bus operations here rather than go to court.

Muldoon met with Mayor Charles B. Mayne councilmen and City Solicitor R. M. White, Monday, relative to the "regulatory measure" submitted some time ago to council for adoption. The bus executive expressed keen opposition to the bill. He asserted it was fashioned after Harrisburg and Reading ordinances where conditions were far different than here and declared that if council insisted upon the ordinance "a matter of self-preservation he would have to fight it in court."

Muldoon objected to the percentage of the gross receipts the city wanted; the proposed bond for performance and charged the car company, now abandoned, had during its career, over-paid the city about $100,000.

After considering Muldoon's remarks, the city solicitor said he would draft another ordinance charging $100 tax on each of 13 buses, each 1 1/2 per cent of the gross receipts the first year and eliminate the bond feature.

To Go To Council

This measure will be submitted to council for consideration. It may mean a starting of a successful conclusion because Muldoon intimated he would be willing to request the S. V. T. directorate to pay slightly in excess the city got from the car company.

Muldoon said Harrisburg and Reading bus operations were put through via "consent" ordinances because railway companies operate buses there. The companies there gave such "consent" because of liability for track repair and removal. This situation doesn't exist here, he said. The car company has passed out of existence and a new company formed. It is capitalized at $50,000 and 1942 receipts may total $100,000, he indicated.

The city under police power can ask a reasonable regulation cost. The city also can charge a mercantile tax of $100 on each bus (all excepting interstate buses are to be affected by the ordinance) Solicitor White asserted.

Muldoon asserted the company carries liability and property insurance so White said the new bill would contain no bond provision but the general ordinance would ask for 1 1/2 per cent of the gross receipts for 1942.

The city received about $1,800 from the street car company, about $1,600 of which was for street cleaning. Muldoon said this was agreed to years ago and the company being bound by the agreement, had paid $100,000. It should not have had to pay.

Under White's proposed new plan the city would receive about $2,700 annually from the S. V. T. company. Muldoon indicated he might request his board of directors to offer a lump sum, several hundred dollars in excess of $1,800.

However, the bus company official said that he did not want council to take the position the company had agreed to this figure because only the board of directors would have the power to make the final decision.

Council and Muldoon indicated that if possible they did not care to enter into a long court battle if a settlement could be reached by negotiations. A meeting will be held after the new measure has been prepared by Solicitor White.

PLAN NEW YEARS GREETING

Arrangements are being made for a number of watch night programs in the Seventh ward on Wednesday night, to properly greet the new year 1942. Indications are that the greeting will be one of the quietest in many years. Whistles will blow and there will be some noisy greetings, but as a rule the serious war situation facing the nation will result in a majority of the parties being of a dignified and quiet order. Some watch night prayer services will also be conducted here.

WILL AID CAMPAIGN

Seventh ward Red Cross workers are beginning their efforts to secure contributions to the $40,000 war fund now being raised by the county for the American Red Cross. As in the recent roll call for the Red Cross, the Seventh ward will respond to this latest call in a very commendable way, the campaign directors report.

Radio Listeners Given Warning

Be On Alert For Axis Propaganda Use Of Radio West Coast Told

JAPANESE STATION BREAKS BROADCASTS

(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—A warning to radio listeners to be on the alert against Axis propaganda fed into the regular broadcast wavelength—a familiar technique in the European war—was sounded today by the twelfth naval district.

The warning followed reports from naval intelligence in Manila that a powerful Japanese station had broken in an American broadcast to the far east with false reports that San Francisco was being bombed by Jap planes—in an apparent attempt to shatter civilian morale in bomb-torn Manila.

It came while hundreds of Japanese, German, and Italian nationals in seven western states were surrendering short-wave radio equipment and cameras for the duration of the war, on orders from the attorney general. The orders forbade unauthorized short-wave messages were being sent and received on the Pacific coast.

Coast Is Alert

The drive on radio espionage and propaganda came as the war went into its fourth week, with no new alarms on the coast and no further reports of Japanese submarine activity near U. S. shores.

Despite the bill, the coast's 10,000,000 citizens remained alert, with warnings by civil and military authorities that the new year holiday will be a particular danger period. In most cities, the new year celebration has been curtailed.

Twelfth naval district headquarters, in revealing the new Jap propaganda technique, said the Japs were obviously attempting to create panic by means of deliberate lies.

An unidentified radio station, presumably in Japan, cut three or four times into the regular early morning far eastern news broadcast of KGEI, powerful west coast short-wave station on which thousands of far eastern listeners depend for unbiased world news.

The English-speaking Jap announcer presented phony flashes that San Francisco was being bombed by a "fleet of Japanese planes" and that "many buildings were in flames."

Plans Of Truckers Progress Rapidly

National President Ted V. Rodgers To Be Speaker Here January 17th

Uncle Sam has asked his nephews and nieces to conserve in the use of paper, and one of the first evidences of abstinence in the use of paper is that of the Lawrence County Chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association. The chapter's fourth annual safety banquet takes place January 17 in the Cathedral and no programs will be printed. It is estimated about 100 pounds of paper will be saved.

The banquet plans are progressing rapidly, according to Harry L. Gornley, general chairman. Ted V. Rodgers, national president of the American Trucking Association and a member of the National Transportation committee appointed by President Roosevelt, will be the principal speaker. Other speakers include Samuel F. Niness, state president of PMTA and Edward Gogolin, general manager of the state.

W. A. Francis Toastmaster
William A. Francis has been named as this year's toastmaster and because the ladies are included in this year it is necessary to hold the dinner in a larger hall than usual, hence the Cathedral.

Fred Clarke, who has charge of the exhibit which is a part of the dinner plans has already a long list of exhibitors who will be a part of the displays that will be placed in the dining hall. The exhibit will open at one thirty in the afternoon and the dinner will start at six thirty.

During the evening a floor show will be presented and the show will be made up of professional acts from Pittsburgh. Many of them are acts that have played the larger night clubs.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Fear is one of the factors that brings a patient to the doctor. The unknown is a very potent influence in exciting fear.

Fear is, undoubtedly, a defensive mechanism. Every patient approaches his doctor with a degree of fear.

The doctor will allay that fear as quickly as possible.

A definite diagnosis will relieve the patient's mind.

Even a diagnosis that is not entirely favorable.

The doctor gives the fear-ridden patient confidence and hope.

His human sympathy relieves fears, even pain in some instances. Doctors, themselves, make poor patients.

They know the complications of objective symptoms and fear grips them.

The patient needs confidence, hope and cheer to drive out fear.

Smokeout Results From Paint Fire

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 30.—Down-town Pittsburgh had a "smokeout" last night that had nothing to do with air raid defense.

Five firemen were partially overcome and traffic had to be rerouted for two hours because of dense smoke from a two-alarm fire in the basement of the Smithfield Paint Company. Burning varnish, turpentine and wallpaper poured a smoke blanket over the area. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

The train and depot are no longer romantic; now we all go down to the airport to see the plane come in.
